"Forza Italia does not have a strategy" Mr. Bondi said? Forza Italia (the party of Berlusconi) has no more strength, and nothing is left of the things for which it was born. No thought nor soul, no intelligence, no eyes to see, or ears to hear. In fact they did not realize that we are living under a dictatorship since several years.

Where are the Liberals and the Moderates they talk so much about? If you support mr. Renzi, you are not a liberal nor a moderate. There is no freedom nor democracy in a country where all the money we spend every day is counted and checked in the bank accounts. What is the difference between this and the internal passports of the old Soviet regime? Instead of the the passport it is the number of coins that determines how far you can go.

"Through money you will imprison them": this is the basic rule of Brussels; it was enforced by the best performers of Italy: Monti, Letta, Renzi. Bondi cannot understand this because, like the rest of Forza Italia, he fell into an abyss of depression. Don't you see that Renzi seems so active just because you do not move anymore? You do not dare to think or act, to come up with an idea. You can just repeat the same old story about the debts that have to be paid, the Maastricht treaty that must be obeyed. You do not have any self confidence and you do not trust the intelligence of the Italians.

Your party is abandoned into passivity and immobility only because your boss can not lead you to the victory as he did before? Mr. Bondi does not understand that Forza Italia must act instead, showing its energies, and that this can be done only fighting? If Forza Italia is just the spare wheel of mr. Renzi, it will not create or win anything and will attract only gray, weak people - the same as they are. In order to fight, you must be in the opposition, and have an enemy: there are no alternatives. the Right has disappeared because it did not realize that marxism is here, with the primacy of economic structures, of Finance.

There is no need of an explicit battle against capitalism, of the elimination of the bourgeoisie. This happened during the first and rough first phases of marxism, especially in the Soviet Union. But in the european world, that is convinced of its absolute democracy, and believes that nothing can endanger its freedom, all this became so "obvious" that it was possible to put the rope around our neck: we did not realize it, nor did mr. Bondi.

The rope is precisely the economic and financial dictatorship. Renzi needs a vote of confidence to pass his own laws? Nothing is more democratic: you can not stop the Def (the government Decree on Economy and Finance). Mr. Padoan (minister of Economy and Finance) is convinced that there is still some money hidden under the mattress, and is cross-checking the data of all the money Italians earn and spend? Very very well, finally we will win over the Dodgers, the modern incarnation of the Devil! The Holy Inquisition was sure that the devils were hidden in the hair of the witches, but rightly they believed that a zero haircut was not enough: they also shaved their pubic hair. Mr. Bondi, be brave! say a word in defense of the private life of the Italians; defend the primacy of the person over the State and the taxes. Do not bow your head anymore: fight - or die.
