

The European Dictatorship

by Ida Magli

ItalianiLiberi | November 23rd, 2011

Now that the European Dictatorship is officially established, with the consent of those who were supposed to defend Democracy, we can foresee what will come next, being sure that we are in the right. All this, in fact, has been forecasted more than one year ago, and it was made public with a book entitled "The European Dictatorship". The only difference is that it was appointed mr. Monti – instead of mr. Draghi. I suggested mr. Draghi as the first one that would establish the Dictatorship of the Bankers, just because one year ago he had not yet been appointed as Chief of the European Central Bank; but their names can be easily be interchanged.

Finally the President of the Italian Republic, mr. Napolitano, is breathing the air that the likes most. Globalization always was necessary for the Bankers, but has been first theorized by the Communists, who were the first to pursue politically. Lenin used to say that nations or capital towns did not exist, and that any town could be the Capital of the world; he deeply hated Nations and homelands. Since Italy is not a parliamentary republic any more, mr. Napolitano can now use his authority and his power to point out the right way towards communist equality. First of all it will come the italian citizenship given to all the foreigners, a sign showing a deep hate towards Italy and "Italianity". The majority of the Italians does not agree about it? Please, try to be good and righteous! Because this is the first goal of communist politics: educating Italians. And, after all, what is the importance of citizenship? For the european Dictators it has no importance, since they imposed the european citizenship over 500 millions of subjects – although they knew all too well that it is not valid, since the European Union is not a State. Never mind, lets us run towards globalization and multiculturalism: the citizens will pay for it, not the Dictators.

It is important to reach the final goal: to cancel the national States, depriving them of any power; in this, Europe is at a good point. Do not believe that Bankers or Politicians are really worrying about the financial problems, about the public debt or the bear stock market, or about the spread. This is exactly what they wanted: to drown us into debts; and they are succeeding. Probably the timing was a bit too slow for their taste, and this is why they decided to speed it up, destroying local governments. The first one to fall was Italy: this was the purpose of the appointment of mr. Monti. No State is weaker than the one that has no legitimate government: the present one is creating new political posts, is treating the representatives who had been voted by the people as puppets, and it is inventing day-by-day solutions. This government is weak, and it looks even weaker in the eyes of the world, including those of the markets whose trust it was seeking. Everything is so clear that common sense makes it easy to understand how things really are.

Dear Italians: Bankers and pro-Europe politicians atrociously deceived us, telling us that we would save ourselves with a "strong man". This is why we now are in an emergency political situation, with no set rules. Their goal is to make the States weak, to deprive Democracy of its meaning and also of its power. To do so, they besiege the States day by day, hour after hour, with a crescendo of panic about the debt: but this is just their instrument.

Ida Magli

traduzione a cura di Marina Mascetti

www.italianiliberi.it

Rome, November 23rd, 2011