

The Government of our Enemies

The concept of "representation" does not exist any more, and it's been a long time that we know it. It faded away along with the Sacredness of Power, during the political events of these last days of April 2013. Now, however, with the new government headed by mr. Letta, we can confirm this with absolute certainty. And above all - this is the most important thing - we finally have the great joy of being able to shout loudly: "you do not represent us!". Here are the new rulers of the Italian People, its despots, its exploiters, those who betrayed us, our enemies, the delegates of the Power that lies behind the Bilderberg, the Trilateral, the Aspen Institute. We call it the "Laboratory for the Destruction", because we know that its final goal is precisely our destruction, the annihilation of the European Civilization and of the European States. They are not representing us, though! We must be happy, because we can look into their eyes, one by one; and because we know that we have nothing in common with them. They are standing on the opposite side, they are different from us, they are not "Italians": they are the real enemies of the Italians, their worst enemies, those that are rubbing salt on their wounds long before the end of the battle.

The route that led to the end of "representation" began with the renewal of the presidential mandate to mr. Giorgio Napolitano; this is a logical step, since he was the one who "jumped" over the rules of democracy when he handed over Italy to the Laboratory of the globalist Power, calling mr. Mario Monti to head a new government in 2011. Accepting his second presidential term, mr. Napolitano gave the final blow to the sacredness of the "seven-year term" and consequently to the "representation", which is in fact substantiated by the phenomenology of the Sacred. "Seven" is a sacred number, a magic and powerful number; since the oldest antiquity, all the Peoples who are part of our history, (from the Egyptians to the Jews, the Greeks, the Romans) put themselves under the protection of this sacred Number. Therefore, the period of seven years assigned by the Constitution to the Presidency of the Italian Republic is not a coincidence, nor a rational decision: it implies the transcendent power of this charge, which is stronger than that of the parliamentarians; its perfect completeness is symbolized by the circle closed in on itself of the number Seven. When they were asked to renew the mandate to mr. Napolitano, several politicians noted that there is no written rule against this "repetition"; but the rule was never written because it was obvious, it was self-understood. So the replica of the seven years term for mr. Napolitano finally freed us from the Sacredness of Representation. Together with this Sacredness we are now free from a person that was supposed to represent us, but was loyally following the commands of Europe instead: this is why he led us in the cul de sac whose 'right' conclusion was the birth of the government of mr. Letta.

In 2010, mr. Enrico Letta published a book significantly entitled "Is Europe over?" (Add publisher, Turin), together with his friend Lucio Caracciolo. Three years ago, the question was posed in such an explicit way because the failure of the European construction and of its currency was evident to everybody. Reading a few pages of this book, we understand to what extent we should be afraid of mr. Enrico Letta and of the people that he chose in order to speed-up the devastating mission he was entrusted with. "The Euro has been a success, perhaps the greatest achievement of Europe" - said mr. Letta, looking with satisfaction at the ruins that it produced. And he continued: "I can say that in a way the common currency replaced the Armies: today, instead of a European Army, we have the Euro, the symbol of our ability of representation and of identification. It is in fact as a totem pole, around which Europeans can feel to be europeans" (p. 39). Mr. Enrico Letta is daydreaming, is not he? He sees nothing, he hears nothing. People are cursing the Euro, everyone wants to abandon it, even the Germans; people are horribly suffering, entrepreneurs are killing themselves, millions of unemployed people do not know how to survive. But mr. Letta is not interested in this tragedy: like all dictators and generals, he believes that Peoples by themselves do not exist, they are only a tool. Letta was chosen - as all those who are working for the destruction of Europe - because the lack of critical intelligence means affective insensitivity; and also malleability, and obedience to the fascination of the Absolute Power. They all look alike, in fact: Trichet, Duisenberg, Barroso, Draghi, Rehn, Rompuy, Amato, Prodi, D'Alema, Monti ... And now, with the planned stripping of the Democratic Party (aimed at its renewal, with younger people) we have mr. Enrico Letta.

Mrs. Emma Bonino, the new minister of Foreign Affairs, is supposed to travel around the world in the name of Italy. This is the most evident and horrid seal of this Government, clearly proving the absolute willingness and their ability to destroy not only the People but even the Idea of Italy: the sweetness, the beauty that along the centuries accompanied the name and the image of Italy. Nobody in the world, probably, could symbolize this more than the woman who touted abortion pulling in person fetuses with a bicycle pump (as shown in photographs).
